Mighty Writer is a brand new, innovative and multisensory resource that quickly transforms children's literacy. It teaches the whole process of learning to write from speaking in simple sentences through to planning and editing increasingly complex and sophisticated stories. It uses images, symbols and colours to help children structure and recall sentences with ease.

Its core age range is for 4-7 years, however it can be used with children of all abilities from those who are reluctant to speak to the very able. The visual approach is excellent for use with children with English as an Additional Language (EAL).

Oxford Summer Courses runs academic programmes for students from aged 10 to 24. We use the traditional teaching methods of Oxford University, based on independent learning with small group teaching, and one-to-one tuition for students aged 16 and above. Our programmes are all designed and taught by current Oxford academics. We offer a huge range of subjects as standard, as well as specialist subjects dependent on tutors' and students' interests. We're committed to encouraging the development of all our students, intellectually, socially, and culturally. That's why we supplement our world-class teaching with a lively program of extracurricular activities. The only thing we ask of our students is that they speak English to a high standard, and have a genuine enthusiasm for learning in a stimulating environment.

School of Education, University of Buckingham

In 2002 Sir Chris Woodhead and Professor Anthony O'Hear led the first PGCE course at the University of Buckingham. There were just 12 teachers. Now, with over 1000 teachers registered, we are one of the largest providers of in-school teacher training. We run the country's most popular Master's Degree in leadership with some 200 candidates studying with us each year. All of the courses focus on the practical application of educational theory and our aim is to improve the craft of teaching and leading in school. Providing frameworks for studying 'on-the-job' as well as blending distance learning with face-to-face sessions, we have designed our courses to balance the demands of school life alongside professional.
