

Webinar Title	The benefits of creating a coaching culture in your school In Association with Making Stuff Better
Webinar Date	Tuesday 19 June 2018
Webinar Time	13.00 UK Time (GMT)
Target audience	Head teachers, Senior Leader, Middle Leaders, teaching staff in international schools
Learning outcomes	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand the basic principles of coaching • Develop knowledge & understanding how coaching conversations can achieve transformation • Identify opportunities for using coaching in your school • Understand the impact that coaching can have on teacher and colleague development.
Webinar Description	Coaching is emerging as one of the most powerful ways to evoke transformation in teams and individuals. Once well embedded, coaching can be a hugely powerful way of driving school improvement and improving teacher engagement and well-being. This webinar will leave delegates with the skills and confidence to initiate and create powerful coaching conversations with their team, understand the power of coaching and how it can be used as tool for creating growth and transformation. They will be able to recognise the scenarios in which coaching is needed, as well as when it is not and have a better understanding of themselves as a potential coach and the impact this can have on their schools.
Presenter Biography	Matt Hall MA, MPhil, PGCE, NPQH, CTI. After graduating from the University of Cambridge, Matt headed for the corporate world. It didn't take many years of treading the commercial hamster-wheel to realise that a more meaningful career beckoned and, after a short stint working for a charity in Nigeria, he made the decision to join the teaching profession. Promotion to Senior Leadership came three years after his NQT year and he has now worked as a senior leader in three diverse and different schools. The most recent of these in Oman. Matt is now co-director of Making Stuff Better, a leadership development and coaching company that works closely with schools and companies. Matt trains with the Co-Active Coaches Training Institute (CTI) and is a qualified National College and COBIS training facilitator, Matt is also founder of Organic Man, a coaching company that helps good men become great Dads. Matt is currently co- authoring a book for Crown House on school leadership in challenging contexts.