

Webinar Title	Teaching students how to be intelligent - In Association with High Performance Learning
Webinar Date	Tuesday 14 June 2016
Webinar Time	13.00 (UK Time)
Target audience	Teachers and school leaders interested in latest ideas on teaching and learning.
Learning outcomes	This webinar will help participants: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand how World Class schools manage to ensure that all their pupils achieve highly regardless of starting point • Be familiar with research on how people reach success and what that means for your school and your teaching • Understand the latest thinking on ability and why you should expect far more pupils to achieve highly • Understand that success means not only passing exams but also being life and work ready • Learn about High Performance Learning, an evidence based, practical approach to schooling that systematically develops the competencies that enable all pupils to reach success
Webinar Description	High Performance Learning is a teaching and learning approach which enables students to enhance and build their own ability, to use it productively to obtain good academic results and develop a wider set of life skills. It sets out progress routes for 20 generic characteristics students need to develop if they are to be high performers in cognitive domains (ACPs) and 10 values attitudes and attributes (VAAs) that develop the wider learner dispositions needed for cognitive and lifetime success. These provide a structure for student development while enabling schools to customise to fit within their individual vision, context and curriculum. It rejects conventional notions of fixed ability and focuses instead on current and future performance with high performance being seen as an attainable target for everyone. It is rooted in research from gifted education, psychology and neuro-science.

Presenter
Biography

Professor Deborah Eyre is a global educational leader, researcher, writer and influencer helping good schools become world class. Her career has included a variety of senior education roles both globally and in UK as well as advising governments and educational foundations in UK, Hong Kong, South Africa, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, USA and Singapore. From 2010-2014 she was Education Director for Nord Anglia Education and prior to that served as Director of the UK government's innovative National Academy for Gifted and Talented Youth (NAGTY), based at the University of Warwick. A widely published author, her new book High Performance Learning: How to Become a World Class School was published in January 2016. Deborah is a member of the COBIS Board, a Trustee of the Swan Multi-Academy Trust, a Freeman of the City of London Worshipful Company of Educators and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts.